TERMS OF USE

These Terms of Use ("Terms") establish the guidelines for your interaction with the Albuquerque Melo Advogados ("Amelo") website, accessible at www.amelo.com.br (the "Website").

We will clarify the circumstances and purposes under which your information is used during your interaction with the Website. These Terms do not apply to social media platforms such as Facebook, Instagram, and YouTube, even if you use them to connect with us. We recommend that you always be aware of the terms and policies related to any third-party websites or platforms you visit.

The Website has the sole purpose of providing institutional information about the firm and its members. No part of the Website content, including institutional newsletters and articles written by members of the firm, should be construed as legal advice or counseling. We recommend that you consult directly with Amelo's attorneys for the most appropriate legal guidance.

1

The Website aims to provide institutional information to clients and the general public, covering details about our law firm and offering informative legal content, which should not be interpreted as legal recommendations, legal opinions, or counseling. In full compliance with the ethical principles of the Brazilian Bar Association (OAB), the Website does not seek client acquisition or advertising disclosure.

2

The information and texts presented on this website have been prepared by Amelo professionals or obtained from sources considered reliable. We do not take responsibility for the content of external links indicated on the Website and we hereby clarify that we do not have any affiliations with the referenced sites.

Therefore, we cannot ensure the observation of privacy, security, quality, authenticity, or integrity of the information provided. We suggest that you check the veracity of the information and take the necessary measures to protect yourself against potential damages.

3

Amelo reserves the right to improve the information on the Site and disclaims, to the fullest extent permitted by law, liability for damages arising from use, technical failures, interruptions, viruses or incompatibilities.

4
